Memorials for Cemeteries

Cemeteries are council maintained and usually allow any natural material. However, memorials must comply with the sizes laid down by the cemetery regulations which, in many cases, restrict the use of full kerbstones.

You will notice there are many different colours and designs in the granite memorials; these are all interchangeable, although some motifs will not show clearly on lighter coloured stones. Granite is very hard and durable and therefore not affected by weathering and is easy to maintain. The softer white marble, however, lends itself to more intricate designs and allows delicate carvings and details.

Memorials for Churchyards

Permission for memorials can only be given by the local incumbent if they comply with the rules laid down by the local diocese. Only the memorials with an unpolished finish are allowed in churchyards, and in some areas designs are restricted to a simple motif or cross. However, it is possible to apply for a Faculty (special permission) direct to the diocese in certain instances.

Suitable materials include medium and light grey granites, Yorkstone or Limestone. White marble memorials are not permitted but designs in Nabresina, which is buff coloured, are quite acceptable.

Portraits

Displaying a portrait on a memorial is another way in which to remember your loved one.

For the best results, a high quality photo is required.

To live in the hearts of Those we love is not to die

Forever in our hearts.
Together Again - Reunited.
Too dearly loved to be forgotten.

Peace Perfect Peace.
Sadly missed and not forgotten.
Resting where no shadows fall.

At Rest - At Peace.
His life a beautiful memory
His absence a silent grief.
Your vacant place no one can fill we miss you now and always will
.....

Memory is a golden chain that binds us till we meet again.
No farewells were spoken,
no time to say goodbye.
You were gone before we knew it,
and only God knows why.
Suffer little children to come unto me.

There's a home for children
.....
Run with the wind and play with the stars, little one.

Jesus called a little child unto him.
A tiny flower lent not given to bud
on Earth and bloom in Heaven.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
but you did not go alone,
for part of us went with you,
the day God called you home.

If tears could build a stairway
and memories a lane,
we would walk right up to Heaven,
and bring you home again.

A light is from our household gone
a voice we loved is stilled
a place is vacant in our hearts
which never can be filled.

We miss his smile, his cheery way,
we miss the things he used to say,
and when old times we oft recall,
it's then we miss him most of all.

God sees when the footsteps falter
and the way has become too steep
so he touches the weary eyelids and gives his loved one sleep.

Loving and kind in all his ways upright and just to the end of his days sincere and true in heart and mind
a beautiful memory left behind.

A bouquet of beautiful memories sprayed with a million tears wishing God could have spared you if just for a few more years.
